Reading County Court
Claim 3QZ06221
Adrian Kennard vs Deane Computer Solutions Ltd

Documents to be relied on at the hearing, and key points of this case.

This matter relates to the The Privacy and Electronic Communications (EC Directive) Regulations 2003 ("The regulations");

1. I am a living individual, my name is Adrian Kennard, I live at 43 Fletcher Gardens, BRACKNELL. I meet the definition of "individual" as per section 2 of the regulations [5].
2. Dedicated Programmes are a company who provide electronic communications services to the public, and as such meet the definition of a provider of "public electronic communications service" as per section 2 of the regulations. This can be seen from the main Dedicated Programmes web site but they have also been kind enough to furnish me with a letter confirming this fact [1].
3. I have a contract with Dedicated Programmes for the provision of email services on the email address adrian@titanic.co.uk. This is clear from the invoice [3] for such services but Dedicated Programmes have also provided a letter confirming this fact [2].
4. I am a party to that contract as an individual, as confirmed by my home address being on the invoice [3] and the contents of the letter [2] from Dedicated Programmes. As such I am an "individual subscriber" as referenced by section 22 of the regulations [6].
5. On 24th July the defendant transmitted an unsolicited marketing email [4] to the email address adrian@titanic.co.uk. This is an email transmitted to an "individual subscriber" as can be seen from the above statements.
6. I have never engaged in any sale or negotiation with the defendant or given them consent to the sending of such emails. As such it is clear that they are in breach of section 22 [6] of the regulations.
7. I am entitled to claim damages as per section 30 of the regulations. In considering this matter it is worth noting that I have had to exchange a considerable number of emails with the defendant including those where I am accused of fraud or a scam, and clear indications that the defendant has every intention of withholding information relating to his defence and abusing process to ensure the case takes as much time and cost for me as possible [7].

Attached:-

- [1] Letter from Dedicated Programmes confirming that they are a provider of public electronic communications services
- [2] Letter from Dedicated Programmes confirming I have a contract for adrian@titanic.co.uk
- [3] Invoice from Dedicated Programmes for email services on adrian@titanic.co.uk
- [4] Unsolicited marketing email from the defendant
- [5] The regulations, interpretation, defining "individual" and "subscriber"
- [6] The regulations, section 22, outlawing such emails
- [7] One of many emails from defendant during negotiations.

Dedicated Programmes Email

9th September 2013

To whom it may concern,

As a small, limited company, Dedicated Programmes offers many services to it's customers and friends one of which is the provision of electronic mail.

We run our own servers on the Internet and can, and will, provide email to members of the public who engage us to do so. It therefore seems that we come under the definition of the "public electronic communications service" as laid down in the Communications Act 2003.

I hope that this helps to clear up any confusion.

If anyone involved would like to procure an email address from us then please do contact me using the details above.

Yours faithfully

To whom it may concern,

The domain titanic.co.uk is owned by Simon Faulkner and has been since it was first registered back in 1996. It is managed on his behalf by Dedicated Programmes Limited who also own and operate the email servers used to provide email services for the domain and as such are the "communications service provider" for such email services.

The domain is only used to provide personal email addresses to a small number of friends and family of Mr. Faulkner and as such there are no guarantees or service level agreements in place.

We have had a contract in place with Mr. Kennard to provide the email address adrian@titanic.co.uk since the year 2000 when, in reciprocation, he let us to help test an accounting system that he was developing.

The contract is with Mr. Kennard personally and has nothing to do with his business interests, indeed the whole idea of the personal addresses was to allow us to communicate as friends outside of our respective companies.

I hope that this helps to clarify the status of the email address in question, if there are any further questions please get in touch using the details above.

Yours faithfully

Interpretation

2.—(1) In these Regulations—

“bill” includes an invoice, account, statement or other document of similar character and “billing” shall be construed accordingly;

“call” means a connection established by means of a telephone service available to the public allowing two-way communication in real time;

“communication” means any information exchanged or conveyed between a finite number of parties by means of a public electronic communications service, but does not include information conveyed as part of a programme service, except to the extent that such information can be related to the identifiable subscriber or user receiving the information;

“communications provider” has the meaning given by section 405 of the Communications Act 2003(1);

“corporate subscriber” means a subscriber who is—

- (a) a company within the meaning of section 735(1) of the Companies Act 1985(2);
- (b) a company incorporated in pursuance of a royal charter or letters patent;
- (c) a partnership in Scotland;
- (d) a corporation sole; or
- (e) any other body corporate or entity which is a legal person distinct from its members;

“the Directive” means Directive 2002/58/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 12 July 2002

concerning the processing of personal data and the protection of privacy in the electronic communications sector (Directive on privacy and electronic communications)(3);

“electronic communications network” has the meaning given by section 32 of the Communications Act 2003(4);

“electronic communications service” has the meaning given by section 32 of the Communications Act 2003;

“electronic mail” means any text, voice, sound or image message sent over a public electronic communications network which can be stored in the network or in the recipient’s terminal equipment until it is collected by the recipient and includes messages sent using a short message service;

“enactment” includes an enactment comprised in, or in an instrument made under, an Act of the Scottish Parliament;

“individual” means a living individual and includes an unincorporated body of such individuals;

“the Information Commissioner” and “the Commissioner” both mean the Commissioner appointed under section 6 of the Data Protection Act 1998(5);

“information society service” has the meaning given in regulation 2(1) of the Electronic Commerce (EC Directive) Regulations 2002(6);

“location data” means any data processed in an electronic communications network indicating the geographical position of the terminal equipment of a user of a public electronic communications service, including data relating to—

- (f) the latitude, longitude or altitude of the terminal equipment;
- (g) the direction of travel of the user; or
- (h) the time the location information was recorded;

“OFCOM” means the Office of Communications as established by section 1 of the Office of Communications Act 2002(7);

“programme service” has the meaning given in section 201 of the Broadcasting Act 1990(8);

“public communications provider” means a provider of a public electronic communications network or a public electronic communications service;

“public electronic communications network” has the meaning given in section 151 of the Communications Act 2003(9);

“public electronic communications service” has the meaning given in section 151 of the Communications Act 2003;

“subscriber” means a person who is a party to a contract with a provider of public electronic communications services for the supply of such services;

“traffic data” means any data processed for the purpose of the conveyance of a communication on an electronic communications network or for the billing in respect of that communication and includes data relating to the routing, duration or time of a communication;

“user” means any individual using a public electronic communications service; and

“value added service” means any service which requires the processing of traffic data or location data beyond that which is necessary for the transmission of a communication or the billing in respect of that communication.

Use of electronic mail for direct marketing purposes

22.—(1) This regulation applies to the transmission of unsolicited communications by means of electronic mail to individual subscribers.

(2) Except in the circumstances referred to in paragraph (3), a person shall neither transmit, nor instigate the transmission of, unsolicited communications for the purposes of direct marketing by means of electronic mail unless the recipient of the electronic mail has previously notified the sender that he consents for the time being to such communications being sent by, or at the instigation of, the sender.

(3) A person may send or instigate the sending of electronic mail for the purposes of direct marketing where—

- that person has obtained the contact details of the recipient of that electronic mail in the course of the sale or negotiations for the sale of a product or service to that recipient;
- the direct marketing is in respect of that person's similar products and services only; and
- the recipient has been given a simple means of refusing (free of charge except for the costs of the transmission of the refusal) the use of his contact details for the purposes of such direct marketing, at the time that the details were initially collected, and, where he did not initially refuse the use of the details, at the time of each subsequent communication.

(4) A subscriber shall not permit his line to be used in contravention of paragraph (2).

Mr Kennard,

I have really tried to be patient with you.

I had hoped:

- you would file a claim
- we would request the listing be held in a court near us
- you would have to travel to weymouth
- the court in the first session would allow 30 mins
- you would rock up and present your claim and base it on past success, and your interpretation of regulations
- the judge would state that given the back ground reading the case would have to be adjourned
- you would have to travel to Weymouth again
- you would argue the case again, we would then present a defence.
- You would loose on one very key fact which you and others over look
- We get awarded costs. (£275 + VAT an hour for our lawyer)
- We would ask the judge to challenge previous instances where you have extorted monies from individuals and companies.

We would then go to the online fraud website and submit an overview of what has happened, your self-declared previous successes, point to the verdict of the court and make a complaint

I had hoped this would happened because you incur maximum costs, why, simply because of your approach and conduct during this matter.

If you are serious, get qualified representation. The UK legal system deserves better respect than you give it. Judges, barristers and lawyers are qualified to consider this matter, you sir do not appear to be. Whilst I fully support every man's right to have his day in court, I do believe they have better things to do than have their time wasted addressing, ill-conceived cases.

If however you would like me to explain the reasons why you do not have a case, cover the costs of my solicitor writing to you and I will happily engage them to do so.

With this in mind, please do one of the following:

- Pay the fees, and start claim proceedings
- Get representation
- Agree to cover the cost of our solicitor, writing to you.

Regards

Darren Scott

No, the points are not clear.

I have stated very clearly why you are in breach with detailed reference to the sections of the regulations.

You have not given one reason why you consider that you are not.

This is not a scam, it is my legal right as per section 30 of the regulations.

The regulations are clear that your actions are unlawful unless you meet some specific points, such as consent, or obtaining the email by sale or negotiation, etc.

These are all things which you could back up - you could provide details of when and how you believe consent was given, or when and how my email address was obtained through sale or negotiation where I had a chance to opt-out.

You have failed to do so.

You have not provided one statement or fact or claim even that backs up your assertion that you are not in breach of the regulations. Why?

> This will be my last response to your emails as I have a business to run.

In which case I have to conclude that you do not wish to continue with discussion and negotiation as alternate dispute resolution as per the pre-action conduct directions. I am sorry to hear that.

> May I suggest if you wish to make the matter litigious you do so.

You are expected by the courts to take reasonable steps to resolve the matter without resorting to the court.

You have refused to do so - you have not yet once indicated the reasons why you feel your actions are not in breach of the regulations. Your refusal to take steps to resolve the matter by discussion and negotiation will not help your case as and when this matter goes to court.

So, once again, I ask: Exactly why do you believe your actions are not in breach of the regulations?

If, as you seem to believe, I have this wrong, and you are not in breach, it would be a simpler matter for you to state why. It would be a simple matter, for example, for you to state when and how you believe I gave consent to the sending of your unsolicited marketing email.

If, somehow, I have missed some point of the regulations, perhaps in some other section, which excuses your actions, then state which regulation and why.

If, as you say, you have a business to run and would rather not continue these discussions, then that would be the prudent course of action - to point out why exactly I am wrong, as that would indeed be the end of it.

If I am wrong, I will leave you alone, and even apologise for hassling you. I am at a loss as to why you are not doing so - why not simply state the reason now so that I have no case to continue? Why invite court action by being evasive and refusing to co-operate in discussion of the matter now?
